In just a few short decades, Canada's Filipino community has grown from less than a thousand residents to become one of the country's largest immigrant demographics. At present, over 500,000 Filipinos call Canada home, and this number is increasing rapidly. In fact, in recent years, the Philippines has been the greatest source of immigrants to Canada.